CITY COUNCIL MESSAGE

Citizens of Smithfield:

It wasn't very long ago I was shoveling snow, wondering if the snow would ever quit and the summer months would make it to Smithfield. Now I find myself sitting in the shade wondering if the hot weather will ever cool off. If you have a chance to look at our city logo you will see at the bottom of it we are recognized as Utah's Health City.

The City of Smithfield has an amazing Parks and Recreation Department headed by Brett Daniels. Recently I met with Brett to ask some questions about our youth sports programs. Here is a list of programs that Brett shared with me:

- Youth girls and boys soccer in the spring and fall with an increase of 43.2 %
- Youth basketball program is played year around and increased 44.6 %
- We have 6 gyms and Brett said he could utilize 6 more.
- Boys flag football
- Girls volleyball
- Girls softball
- Boys baseball across the nation is declining—our program grew 12.5 %

Brett shared that the fastest growing programs are tumbling, dance and martial arts. The rec center also run dodge ball camps, health and fitness camps, cooking and craft camps, tennis camps and musical theater camps. When these classes become available on their website most of them fill up within a few hours.

Now I ask you to think about the support people for these programs: the coaches, the coach's assistants, the camp instructors and the officials who make the calls in the game, and especially the parents who are making sure that their children are enjoying the opportunity to be active and healthy— after all we are known as Utah's Health City.

We cannot forget the newest addition to the parks program and that is the new splash pad in Central Park. There was a lot of hard work by Brett and his staff to get it ready for this summer and every time I drove by I was always impressed at the young children playing in the water. I guess I should be thankful for the hot summer months.

Please be safe and have a great fall!

Councilman Curtis Wall
